

The background of the slide features a photograph of several individuals, primarily women, dressed in traditional Nigerian clothing. On the left, a woman wears a blue headwrap and a patterned blue dress. On the right, a woman is seen in a red dress with a large, ornate traditional headpiece. The entire background image is dimmed. Overlaid on this is a map of Nigeria, which is filled with the colors of the Nigerian flag: green on the left and right sides, and white in the center. The title text is positioned over the white central band of the map.
